NOTICE OF MOTION

Pursuant to Local Rule 7-1(b) and consistent with this Court's May 27, 2020 Order Regarding Motions to Intervene and Motions for Leave to Submit Amicus Briefs (Doc. 80), the States of Georgia, West Virginia, Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming ("State Intervenors") respectfully request leave to submit without oral argument this Motion to Intervene in Support of Defendants in the above-captioned case.

9 In the alternative, the State Intervenors notice that on July 9, 2020, at 1:30pm, or as soon as 10 this matter may be heard before the Honorable Richard Seeborg in the above-titled Court, located 11 at the San Francisco Courthouse, Courtroom 3, 17th Floor, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San 12 Francisco, California, 94102, the State Intervenors will, and hereby do, move for the same relief.

The State Intervenors hereby move for leave to intervene as a matter of right under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24(a)(2) or, in the alternative, permissively under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24(b).

16 The State Intervenors submit in support this notice of motion and accompanying motion to 17 intervene in support of defendants; proposed opposition to plaintiffs' motion for preliminary 18 injunction; and proposed answer. The State Intervenors consulted with counsel for the plaintiffs 19 and the defendants; the defendants take no position and the plaintiffs reserve the right to oppose.

MOTION AND MEMORANDUM TO INTERVENE IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24(a)(2), the State Intervenors respectfully move to intervene in support of Defendants in this action concerning "The Navigable Waters Protection Rule: Definition of 'Waters of the United States,'" 85 Fed. Reg. 22,250 (Apr. 21, 2020) (to be codified at 33 C.F.R. pt. 328). In the alternative, the State Intervenors move for leave to intervene pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24(c).

BACKGROUND

A. Statutory Background

The statutory term "waters of the United States" limits the geographic reach of federal regulatory jurisdiction under the Clean Water Act. Most notably, the Act's key permitting programs for discharges of pollutants, 33 U.S.C. § 1342 (section 402), and "dredged or fill material," id. § 1344 (section 404), require permits for discharges into "navigable waters," which the Act defines as "the waters of the United States, including the territorial seas," Id. § 1362(7). And the Act requires states to develop water quality standards—which designate the use for which a given body of water is to be protected, and then set criteria that must be met to safely allow that use—for "waters of the United States" within their borders. See id. § 1313. For farmers, developers, homeowners, and landowners, whether their land includes a feature covered under the Act determines whether they must first obtain a federal permit—a process that can take years and often costs tens or hundreds of thousands of dollars—to develop or use their property. See Rapanos v. United States, 547 U.S. 715, 722 (2006) (plurality op.) (citing 33 U.S.C.

§§ 1362(12), 1362(6)). And unauthorized discharges can subject an individual to fines and other civil or criminal penalties. 33 U.S.C. §§ 1311(a), (f), 1319, 1365.

Recent Supreme Court decisions addressing the agencies' attempts to define the "waters of the United States" subject to federal jurisdiction have rebuffed them as too expansive. See Solid Waste Agency of N. Cook County v. U.S. Army Corps of Eng'rs (SWANCC), 531 U.S. 159, 174 (2001) (rejecting assertion of federal jurisdiction over isolated ponds based on mere ecological connection to jurisdictional waters); Rapanos, 547 U.S. at 739, 742 (plurality op.) (rejecting assertion of jurisdictions beyond "relatively permanent, standing or continuously flowing bodies of water" and "wetlands with a continuous surface connection to" those waters); id. at 776 (Kennedy, J., concurring) (rejecting assertion of jurisdiction over all "wetlands (however remote) possessing a surface-water connection with a continuously flowing stream (however small)").

B. The 2015 Rule.

In June 2015, the agencies issued a final rule defining "waters of the United States." 80 Fed. Reg. at 37,054 (June 29, 2015) (2015 Rule). Many of the State Intervenors, among others,

Case 3:20-cv-03005-RS Document 107 Filed 06/01/20 Page 7 of 18

1 challenged that rule as contrary to the CWA, the Administrative Procedure Act, and the 2 Constitution. Reflecting the strength of these challenges, the rule was enjoined-and in some 3 cases, declared unlawful-by multiple federal courts. See, e.g., Georgia v. Wheeler, 418 F. Supp. 4 3d 1336, 1383 (S.D. Ga. 2019); North Dakota, et al. v. EPA, et al., 127 F. Supp. 3d 1047 (D. 5 N.D. 2015); Order, Texas v. EPA, Case No. 3:15-cv-162 (S.D. Tex. Sept. 12, 2018) (Doc. 140). While this litigation was ongoing, the President issued an Executive Order in early 2017 6 7 directing the agencies to review the prior rule. Exec. Order No. 13778, 82 Fed. Reg. 12,497 (Feb. 8 28, 2017). The federal agencies ultimately approached this goal in two steps: (1) rescinding the 9 old rule and re-codifying the pre-existing rules, then (2) issuing a new rule defining "waters of 10 the United States" consistent with the CWA and its underlying cooperative federalism 11 framework. See, e.g., Definition of "Waters of the United States"-Recodification of Pre-Existing Rules, 82 Fed. Reg. 34,899 (July 17, 2017). Many of the State Intervenors submitted 12 13 comments in support of these proposed actions. See, e.g., State of West Virginia et al., Comments 14 On The Proposed Rule Entitled Revised Definition of "Waters of the United States," 84 Fed. 15 Reg. 4154 (Feb. 14, 2019) (joined by West Virginia, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, 16 Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, 17 Tennessee, Texas, and Utah).

18

C. The 2020 Rule

19 In October 2019, the Environmental Protection Agency and Army Corps of Engineers ("the 20 agencies") published a final rule repealing the 2015 Clean Water Rule. Definition of "Waters of 21 the United States"—Recodification of Pre-existing Rules, 84 Fed. Reg. 56,626 (Oct. 22, 2019). 22 The agencies then published a second rule formally clarifying the definition of "waters of the 23 United States" under the Clean Water Act. See The Navigable Waters Protection Rule: Definition 24 of "Waters of the United States," 85 Fed. Reg. 22,250 (Apr. 21, 2020) (to be codified at 33 25 C.F.R. 328) ("2020 Rule"). In the 2020 Rule, the agencies concluded that the 2015 rule did not reflect the CWA's proper legal limits and adopted, instead, an approach that largely tracks Justice 26 27 Scalia's plurality opinion in Rapanos. Id. at 22,265. The agencies also recognized that it was 28 inappropriate to push the statute's jurisdictional limits without a clear statement from Congress authorizing the encroachment into traditional state prerogatives. Id. at 22,260, 22,272.

On May 1, 2020, the plaintiffs filed this action challenging the 2020 Rule, seeking declaratory and injunctive relief. Doc. 1. The plaintiffs argued that the agencies acted arbitrarily and capriciously in repealing the 2015 rule and asked this Court to vacate and set aside the 2020 Rule. Id. at 21, 22. On May 18, 2020, the plaintiffs moved for a nationwide preliminary injunction. Doc. 30.

INTERESTS AND GROUNDS FOR INTERVENTION

9 Intervention should be permitted as of right because the State Intervenors "claim[] an 10 interest relating to the property or transaction that is the subject of the action, and [are] so 11 situated that disposing of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede the [State 12 Intervenors'] ability to protect [their] interest," and "existing parties [do not] adequately 13 represent that interest." Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(a)(2). The Ninth Circuit has interpreted this standard as 14 requiring State Intervenors to show that: (1) "the application is timely"; (2) they have "a 15 significant protectable interest relating to the ... subject of the action"; (3) the action may "impede or impair" their ability to protect their interests; and (4) existing parties "may not 16 17 adequately represent . . . [their] interests." Day v. Apoliona, 505 F.3d 963, 965 (9th Cir. 2007). 18 The State Intervenors easily fulfill all four of these factors.

The application is timely.

20 The Rules of Civil Procedure do not set a deadline for intervention, but plaintiffs filed their 21 complaint on May 1, 2020, and the State Intervenors are filing this motion just 31 days after that 22 date and before any the federal defendants have filed any answer or responsive pleading. Perhaps 23 more relevant, this motion is being filed just 14 days after plaintiffs filed a motion for a 24 preliminary injunction seeking nationwide relief-a remedy that would have significant 25 consequences for all States. Intervention at this early stage also would not delay this action as the State Intervenors are simultaneously filing an answer and proposed response to plaintiffs' motion 26 for preliminary injunction. 27

B. The State Intervenors have a significant protectable interest in ensuring the proper interpretation of the federal government's jurisdiction over their sovereign lands and waters.

The State Intervenors have clear and substantial protectable interests at stake in this action. The "property" that is the subject of this action, particularly given the plaintiffs' request for nationwide relief, includes the sovereign lands and waters within the State Intervenors' borders that is potentially subject to federal jurisdiction under the CWA. Day, 505 F.3d at 965. Further, the "regulation of land use" that is the consequence of deeming waters "waters of the United States" is a "quintessential state and local power." Rapanos, 547 U.S. at 738 (plurality op.); see also 33 U.S.C. § 1251(b). It follows that regulating and protecting intrastate waters is an important element of state sovereignty. Tarrant Reg'l Water Dist. v. Hermann, 569 U.S. 614, 632 (2013) (citing United States v. Alaska, 521 U.S. 1, 5 (1997)). These interests are at the heart of this action, which seeks to expand the scope of federal regulatory jurisdiction over the States' lands and waters.

Moreover, the scope of the term "waters of the United States" does not just set federal jurisdiction over waters within the States: it sets the scope of the States' responsibilities under the CWA. That Act was built on a cooperative federalism framework. Congress enacted the CWA with a policy to "recognize, preserve, and protect the primary responsibilities and rights of states to prevent, reduce, and eliminate pollution" and to "plan the development and use ... of land and water resources." 33 U.S.C. § 1251(b). And as contemplated by the Act, the large majority of states have assumed authority to administer the CWA's core permitting regime, see U.S. Envtl. Protection Agency, NPDES Program Authorizations (July 2019), available at https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/2020-

04/documents/npdes_authorized_states_2020_map.pdf. The States are also required to issue water-quality certifications for every federal permit issued within their borders. See 33 U.S.C. § 1341(a). The scope of those programs depends on what counts as "waters of the United States," and the scope of that term thus determines what regulatory duties and costs the States must absorb.

State Intv'rs' Mot. to Intervene (3:20-cv-3005)

Case 3:20-cv-03005-RS Document 107 Filed 06/01/20 Page 10 of 18

1 These substantial effects of the definition of "waters of the United States" on the State 2 Intervenors' interests drove their efforts to challenge the 2015 Rule, which attempted to render 3 the "vast majority of the nation's water features" subject to federal jurisdiction. U.S. EPA & Department of the Army, Economic Analysis of the EPA-Army Clean Water at 11 (May 20, 2015) 4 5 (Docket ID: EPA-HQ-OW-2011-0880-20866), https://www.regulations.gov/document?D=EPA-HQ-OW-2011-0880-20866. This kind of encroachment on the States' sovereign power to 6 7 regulate their water resources lacked statutory or even constitutional justification. See, e.g., 8 Hodel v. Va. Surface Mining & Reclamation Ass'n Inc., 452 U.S. 264, 286-87 (1981) (explaining 9 that a federal rule violates States' Tenth Amendment powers when it addresses matters that are 10 indisputably attributes of state sovereignty, and when compliance with the rule would directly 11 impair States' ability to structure integral operations); see also, e.g., Kansas v. United States, 249 12 F.3d 1213, 1227 (10th Cir. 2001). The 2020 Rule, by contrast, better respects the States' 13 traditional regulatory authority over their lands and waters by returning federal regulators to their 14 appropriate lane. The State Intervenors thus have substantial interests that are threatened by the 15 plaintiffs' action, which seeks to re-impose expansive federal jurisdiction in this area of 16 traditional state authority. If the plaintiffs have interests in this action, the State Intervenors 17 undoubtedly have a protectable interest, too.

22

24

25

26

27

28

C. The disposition of this action could impede the State Intervenors' ability to protect their interests.

The risk this action poses to the State Intervenors' interests is readily apparent. Many of the State Intervenors challenged the 2015 Rule because its expansive assertion of jurisdiction threatened to saddle them and their citizens with substantial costs and infringed their traditional sovereign authority over their lands and waters. See Order, North Dakota v. U.S. Envtl. Prot. Agency, Case No. 3:15-cv-59 (N.D. Aug. 27, 2015 (ECF No. 70) (enjoining 2015 Rule in Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wyoming); Order, Georgia v. McCarthy, Case No. 2:15-cv-79 (S.D. Ga. June 8, 2018) (ECF No. 174) (enjoining the 2015 Rule in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Utah, West Virginia, and

1 Wisconsin); Order, Texas v. EPA, Case No. 3:15-cv-162 (S.D. Tex. Sept. 12, 2018) (ECF No. 2 140) (enjoining the 2015 Rule in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas). And many of the State 3 Intervenors also supported and continue to support the agencies' promulgation of the 2020 Rule 4 as a necessary and important clarification of federal jurisdiction over their sovereign lands and 5 waters. See 84 Fed. Reg. 4154; Macy Decl. ¶ 8; Parfitt Decl. ¶ 3; Singletary Decl. ¶ 4; Swonke Decl. ¶ 7–8. Now, the plaintiffs challenge the 2020 Rule as "arbitrary, capricious, and not in 6 7 accordance with law" and seek to have it set aside and vacated. Doc. 1, at 24. Further, and most 8 pressing, the plaintiffs seek universal injunctive relief in their motion for a preliminary 9 injunction. If the plaintiffs secure their requested relief, the consequences will extend to the State Intervenors, too, even though they support implementation of the 2020 Rule and strongly oppose 10 11 the plaintiffs' requested "relief." See, e.g., Seneca-Cayuga Tribe of Okla. v. Oklahoma, 874 F.2d 12 709, 716 (10th Cir. 1989) (explaining that the "prospect of significant interference with ... self-13 government" weighs against injunctive relief); Wyandotte Nation v. Sebelius, 443 F.3d 1247, 14 1255 (10th Cir. 2006); Kansas v. United States, 249 F.3d 1213, 1227 (10th Cir. 2001). And aside 15 from intervening in this case to defend against that challenge, there is no other ready recourse for 16 the State Intervenors to combat an injunction issued by this Court that applies within their 17 geographic boundaries.

25

26

27

28

D. The existing parties will not adequately represent the interests of the State Intervenors.

Unlike the plaintiffs, the State Intervenors believe the 2020 Rule strikes a reasonable balance between the roles of federal regulators and the States in protecting land and water resources. The State Intervenors view the 2020 Rule as a substantial improvement over the prior rule. The new rule builds on Justice Scalia's plurality opinion in Rapanos, 85 Fed. Reg. at 22314, which the State Intervenors will argue best comports with the text and purposes of the CWA— and at a minimum avoids serious constitutional concerns. Rapanos, 547 U.S. at 737-38 (plurality op.). The 2020 Rule's approach also preserves the longstanding role of the States as primary regulators of intrastate lands and waters by allowing for federal jurisdiction over only relatively permanent bodies of water, and leaving within state control those areas that benefit the most from regulation according to "local policies 'more sensitive to the diverse needs of a heterogeneous society." Bond v. United States, 564 U.S. 211, 221 (2011). The Court should hear from States on both sides of the issue before ruling on this important question.

The defendants-officials and agencies of the federal government-will not adequately 4 represent the State Intervenors' interests, either. Although the defendants will also urge the Court 5 to reject the Complaint, their rationale could differ substantively from the bases the State 6 7 Intervenors intend to advance. The State Intervenors' interests could also differ from those of the 8 agencies when it comes to proper interpretation of the CWA's cooperative federalism 9 framework, for example. The defendants also cannot respond to the plaintiffs' arguments in the 10 same manner that the State Intervenors can: as same-level sovereigns in our federal form of 11 government. Further, the State Intervenors will be able to explain their own regulatory programs better than other litigants. And if the Court holds that the 2020 Rule is unlawful, the plaintiffs 12 13 may seek a remedy that would increase the federal defendants' power and impose irreparable 14 economic harms on the State Intervenors. Given this dynamic, the State Intervenors' interests are 15 not adequately represented by any of the existing parties.

E. In the alternative, the Court should permit intervention under Rule 24(b).

17 Finally, in the event this Court does not grant intervention as a matter of right, the Court should permit the State Intervenors to intervene in this matter pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil 18 19 Procedure 24(b)(1)(B), which provides: "On timely motion, the court may permit anyone to 20 intervene who ... has a claim or defense with the main action a common question of law or fact." The State Intervenors' motion is timely and will not delay these proceedings, as explained above. 21 22 Moreover, their position in support of the 2020 Rule plainly involves common questions of law 23 and fact with this action. Their direct opposition to plaintiffs' claims satisfies the "common 24 question" requirement for permissive intervention. Kootenai Tribe of Idaho v. Veneman, 313 F.3d 25 1094, 1110 (9th Cir. 2002). The State Intervenors therefore satisfy the requirements for permissive intervention to protect their important interests in this case. 26

- 27
- 28

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, the State Intervenors request that the Court grant their motion to intervene as of right, or, in the alternative, grant leave for State Intervenors to intervene.
